J. E. DAVIS CAPTURED AT BIRMINGHAM

MAN WHO WORKED H. SCHMIDT FOR $186 IS FINALLY LANDED

SMALL CHANCE FOR HIM TO BE BROUGHT BACK HERE, HOWEVER, AS ALABAMA AND GEORGIA WANT HIM.

J. E. Davis, the man who bogus-checked Henry Schmidt out of something like $186, and for a grip of whose throat the fingers of the proprietor of Schmidt's hotel have been itching since back in November, is in jail at Birmingham, Ala., and the chances are Mr. Schmidt will not get that "personal" interview he desires for some years to come.

Mr. Schmidt was notified by wire Thursday that the man had been captured in Birmingham and later he received the following letter from the William J. Burns Detective Agency:

"We have J. E. Davis jailed at Birmingham. It is more than likely, however, that you will not be able to handle him for the next 20 years to come, as we have enough charges against him to keep him in Georgia and Alabama prisons for that length of time. Please notify the Merchants bank."

Davis is the man who stopped at Schmidt's hotel for several days during the last part of November and paid his bills with two bogus checks for something like $175, taking the balance in cash. He formerly traveled through this part of the country as a representative of a St. Augustine cigar firm and many years ago was personally known by Mr.
Schmidt. The protests on the checks endorsed by Mr. Schmidt brought the amount of his loss up to $186.

Mr. Davis, who was accompanied by a woman, whom he claimed to have married in Boston ten days previously, left here and went to New Smryna, where he worked the same game on Major Abercrombie, for $185. He told Mr. Schmidt he was headed for Miami and then for South America and that he would be back here January 7, but instead of this he apparently jumped back and continued working his bum check game until captured by the officers at Birmingham.

Since his operations here reports have come in from all parts of the country of the operations of Davis, who some times went by the name of Meyers.

Mr. Schmidt has been trying in every way possible to find some trace of Davis in the hope that he might be brought back here for trial, but there is little chance of the man being brought here. However, Mr.
Schmidt feels some satisfaction in knowing he will be kept for some time where he can't work any more bogus check game.

CAPITAL POLICE ARE PREPARING

GETTING READY TO HANDLE CROOKS AT INAUGURATION

SCORES OF OFFICERS WILL BE IMPORTED FROM ALL LARGE CITIES TO ASSIST DURING FES-TIVITIES.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. — Preparations are already being made by the Washington police department, under the direction of the chief, Maj.
Richard Sylvester, to safeguard the public during inauguration week at the capital.

Although two months ahead of the time, the nets of the police department are being arranged to en-trap any denizens of the underworld who may visit the national capital during the week in which President Wilson is to take his oath of office, to ply their trades among the thousands of visitors.

From years of experience the peace protectors of the national capital know pretty well how to handle affairs at that time and scores of detectives from all the large cities in the United States will be brought to Washington for that week, to assist in spotting the crooks as soon as they enter the city. Once a crook is spotted he will be invited to leave the capital immediately. If he does not do this he will be arrested for vagrancy and confined to a cell until after the festivities are over.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Watrous of Hartford, Conn., regular Daytona winter visitors and guests this season at the Gables, went down to Palm Beach Thursday afternoon to spend a week or more at that place.

BOARD OF TRADE PLANS FOR SMOKER NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

EXTRA EFFORT TO BRING OUT LARGER ATTENDANCE THAN HAS BEEN PRESENT AT LAST TWO MEETINGS.

Efforts are being made by the board of trade to hold a smoker in connection with the regular meeting of that organization next Monday evening. There are a number of important matters to be considered by the board at this time and the smoker will be held as an inducement to get out a larger attendance than has been present at the last two meetings of the board. If the smoker is held it is probable the meeting will be held at the Elks' home instead of at the city hall, the usual meeting place.

NEW SUITS INSTITUTED AT LAW AND CHANCERY.

Recently the following new suits have been instituted in the circuit court.

Chancery—W. D. Sperry vs. Ed. L.
Green; Jane Rusk Williams vs.
Chas. H. Williams; Sophia Bond Compropt vs. Thomas P. Compropt; Fred A. Carnell vs. Geo. J. Vande-Vord.

NEAR SERIOUS ACCIDENT WHEN AUTO SCARES HORSE

ANIMAL JUMPS OVER EMBANK-MENT BUT AUTOMOBILE IS STOPPED AND DRIVER GOES TO HELP WOMEN.

A near serious accident befell Mrs.
W. H. Heath and her companions, Mrs. J. M. Dillon and Mrs. A. H.
Carter, Thursday afternoon, as they were returning after attending a meeting of the Palmetto club in this city. Just as they arrived at Mrs.
Heath's home an automobile made its appearance coming south and Mrs. Heath, who was driving, turned the horse to one side to let the car pass before turning up the side street on which was located the stable. The horse, however, frightened at the automobile, reared and shied until it plunged over the river bank, a drop at that place of several feet. The driver of the auto proved to be a gentleman and stopping his car went to the assistance of the ladies. Mrs. Dillon's son, who was near at hand and saw their predicament, also hurried to their aid. The ladies managed to keep their places in the buggy and Mrs.
Heath retained control of the lines and they were quickly rescued from their unpleasant position.

H. D. Fluhart went up to Jacksonville this morning by train, with the intention of returning to Daytona on the steamer Swaz.

WIND TAKES DOWN WIRES TO NORTH

DAYTONA PRACTICALLY CUT OFF FROM OUTSIDE WORLD

STORM DOES LITTLE DAMAGE IN AND AROUND CITY, BUT TEL-EGRAPH COMMUNICATION IS INTERRUPTED.

Although not a great amount of damage was done by the strong wind in and around Daytona last night, considerable damage must have been done north of Daytona, between this city and Jacksonville, and to the north and west of Jacksonville.

Daytona has been isolated from the rest of the world during the greater part of the day, so far as telegraphic communication is concerned. The local office of the Western Union got one communication from Jacksonville early this morning, then the connection was broken and it was not re-established up to late this afternoon.

During the time of the communication between the local office and Jacksonville orders were sent here not to take any business for points east and west from Jacksonville as the wires were down and the time when communication could be resumed was indefinite.

"Storm warnings were received at the yacht club station here this morning, indicating that the storm was general throughout this section last night and would continue probably until tomorrow.

Walter, Vann, who was a patient at Dr. Bohannon's hospital at the time of his father's death, New Year's day, was able to be out and attend the funeral Thursday afternoon.

NEW BOARD IS TO MEET NEXT MONDAY

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO BE ORGANIZED AT DE LAND

WILLIAM JACKSON OF DAYTONA AND THOMAS MURRAY OF NEW SMYRNA TO BECOME NEW MEMBERS.

The board of county commissioners will hold its regular meeting next Monday, and the two new commissioners, chosen by the people at the election in November, will take their seats at that time. The old board will meet first and wind up its affairs, and the two new members will be taken in and the new board will be organized.

The two men who will become new members of the board at this meeting are William Jackson of this city, who succeeds W. D. Bradshaw, and Thos. J. Murray of New Smryna, who succeeds W. P. Wilkinson. Mr. Jackson is one of the best known men in the county and will undoubtedly make a good county commissioner. Many years ago he was practically in control of politics in this county, but during later years he has retired from county politics. He knows the county thoroughly and Daytona people may depend upon his being alert to the needs of Daytona and the east side of the county.

Mr. Murray was a member of the county board for many years up to two years ago, when Mr. Wilkinson was elected. He is thoroughly conversant with the workings of the commissioners and is really considered a "new" member of the board.

THOSE WHO HAVE RECENTLY BEEN LICENSED TO MARRY.

Judge J. Lee McCrory has recently issued the following marriage licenses: Ellis F. Robinson to Miss Hollie D. Anderson; Dave London to Mrs. Maggie Grant, colored; Eddie Forrester to Lillian Laskins; Willie Macon to Helen Williams; Joseph Jackson to Grace Ann Williams, colored; James E. Alexander to Mrs.
Maude Lyman; Arthur Beal to Gracie James, colored.

J. E. Theus returned Thursday from Ocala, where his younger brother, C. J. Theus, is confined to a hospital while undergoing treatment for serious trouble with one of his eyes. Mrs. Theus is also at Ocala with her son, and staying at the home of another son, P. J. Theus, and wife, who are living in Ocala.

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Oates, who had been visiting their son, Attorney E. F. Oates, and wife at their home on Halifax avenue, Daytona Beach, left New Year's day for DeLand, where they intended to spend a day or two before returning to their home in St. Petersburg.

WAR'S TERRIBLE DEVASTATION

This photograph of one of the streets of Kirk Killiseh was taken just after the capture of that city by the Bulgarians, and shows the awful devastation wrought by the bombardment.

Magnetic Influence.
 People with magnetic bodies are not unknown and six years ago doctors discovered at Vladikavkaz, in the Caucasus, in girl of twelve, whose body was practically a magnet. According to a medico who examined her, every object which she approached would move. Once she walked close to a kitchen dresser, and in an instant the crockery upon it began to dance. On another occasion a heavy bottle standing upon a table was raised in the air when the magnetic maiden went near it.

Wesley's Cup Filled.
 On one occasion Wesley said, while preaching in Dublin: "All crimes have been laid to my charge of which a human being is capable, except that of drunkenness." Whereupon a woman arose and shouted: "You old villain! And will you deny that you pledged your hands to Mrs. Blank for a noggin o' whisky, and didn't she sell them to our parson's wife?" After a moment of amazed silence on the part of the audience, Wesley calmly "thanked God that his cup was now full."

MUSTN'T JOKE WITH SCIENCE

Member of German Research Society Hoaxes His Colleagues and is Promptly Expelled.

The phlegmatic German temperament lends itself little to the vagaries of the jester, and when that phlegmatism is ribbed with the spectacular importance of a German scientific society the slightest deviation from that path of stupid ponderosity brings quick rebuke and speedy vengeance. German scientific reputation is a weighty thing even when error makes it ridiculous.

A member of the Cassel Scientific Research Society of Frankfurt has felt the hand of both speedy vengeance and swift rebuke, for he has been expelled from the learned society, publicly rebuked and is now threatened with legal procedure—all because his vein of humor prompted him to take advantage of his colleagues.

It happened in this manner. A skull was recently found in the ancient grotto near Stemen and the playful research society savant pronounced it to be a human skull of the prehistoric period.

The find was forwarded to the eminent anthropological expert of the University of Breslau, Professor Herman Klatsch, who declared it to be the skull of a modern chimpanzee.

The author of the joke was promptly and publicly rebuked.

meat and cancer.

In view of the fact that meat, and especially fresh meat, is comparatively very cheap in Australia, and in consequence its use probably very much more general than in any other country, it may be interesting on account of meat being frequently associated with cancer to note the incidence of this disease.

In 1908 the total number of deaths reported in the Commonwealth was 46,426. Of this number 2,921, or 6.29 per cent., were due to cancer. If the population is estimated at 4,500,000 the incidence would be one death per annum in every 1,540 of the population. This rate is very much lower than that of the United States, Great Britain or Germany.—Medical Record.

A Widow's Arc, Anyway.

Gibbs—Here's a table showing women's chances of marrying at various ages between twenty and forty. Of course it goes down. Dibbs—Rubbish! If a woman really wants a man her chances are 100 in 100 at any age.

DRAWING THE SOCIAL LINE

William Dean Howells' Snob Story From Wales About the Retired London Tailor.

"I lunched with William Dean Howells in his apartment in Half Moon street while I was in London last month," said a Chicago essayist. "Mr. Howells was as boyish and gay as ever. He was as hard as ever on the snob."

"He told me a snob story he had heard in Wales. He said that a London tailor made his pile and retired to a Welsh castle, where he set up as a squire."

"But the tailor had hardly got established as a squire when a London hatter retired and set up in a neighboring castle as a squire also. It was disgusting."

"A friend, apropos of the ex-hatter's coming, said to the ex-tailor: 'Will you call on him?'"

"Not I," was the reply. "One must draw the line somewhere."

"And so," said the friend, "you draw it round the neck, eh?"

Temper Talk.

A girl does not look pretty when her face is convulsed with rage. Her lover will not forget how she looked.

Nor does a man look dignified, nor does he, as a rule, talk sense, when he is rowing with his sweetheart. Some day, after they are married, perhaps, she will remember what a vulgar fool he made of himself, once upon a time, and she will remind him of it. And then he will be very sick and sorry for himself.

So don't get angry. It is never worth while.

And it isn't a bit clever, either. Any monkey will chatter if it is teased. Any cat will spit if its tail is trodden on.

Try to be more human than a monkey or a cat. Try to smile when you feel like scowling, for when you scowl or frown it leaves wrinkles which can never be removed by treatment of any kind, and it is not worth while to spoil the beauty of the face for a scowl.

Fighting With Fish.

"Why do you insist on nibbling around that hook?" said the fish. "You know the danger." "Yes," replied the little fellow; "but we all have a certain appetite for glory. I am willing to take a chance for the sake of being described to that man's friends as the big fish that got away."

Merely a Business Acquaintance.

Lady Gollightly—"What an awful man you just nodded to! Surely you have not met him socially?" Lord Cadleigh—"Naw, but when in America I met him in a business way. I married his daughter."—The Club-Fellow.

BRAILE'S BIG WELL.

It Would Have Worked Wonders Only It Was Never Dug.

Perhaps the most idiotic of all the many idiotic schemes with which Britons have been enamored in days gone by was that which was known at the time as Braille's big well. M. Braille was a Belgian engineer, residing temporarily in England, who, in 1848, approached the then prime minister (Lord John Russell) with a scheme for sinking a huge shaft, a mile in diameter and twenty miles in depth, that should tap the earth's internal heat and thereby render England independent of her coal supply when this gave out.

Lord Russell, always rather attracted by visionary projects, attentively considered the scheme and caused plans and estimates to be drawn up. The first difficulty was the rush of water, which would have been certain to occur sooner or later. This it was proposed to keep under by pumping caissons being used for the purpose of further excavation. While the finished portion of the shaft was to be rendered watertight by a "jacket" of granite set in Portland cement.

Mad as the scheme was, it found plenty of advocates, and a provisional bill had been, it was said, actually drafted, when the overthrow of the government on the franchise question was announced, and the whole business was thenceforth consigned to a well merited oblivion.—Pearson's Weekly.

BREAKING IT GENTLY.

The Naval Court Was Polite With the Pushing Boston Attorney.

Courts martial are not infrequently held on battleships in the Charlestown navy yard. Sometimes a sailor will send for a Boston attorney to defend him, although this tendency is discouraged by the officers. Most attorneys know they have no absolute right to practice in a naval court and can do so only by permission of the court, but occasionally a lawyer goes aboard who does not realize this fact.

A sailor who was charged with gambling had retained an attorney to get him off. This attorney, who had never had such a case before, went briskly into the officers' wardrobe, where the court was sitting and without waiting on ceremony began to address the court in a blustering manner.

"Just a minute," interrupted the presiding officer. "Who are you?"

"I am Mr. Rudolph Smithers," the attorney replied. "and I am a member of the Massachusetts bar."

"Oh, you are Mr. Smithers, are you?" continued the officer. "Then you are the man whom the orderly wants to see."

"He called the orderly."

"What does the orderly want of me?" asked the attorney in a superior tone.

"Nothing very much," replied the chief justice. "He merely wants to show you off the ship."—New York Herald.

The Womanly Touch.

Adam was showing Eve through the cave.

"This is the living room," he said. "It is furnished as luxuriously as possible in these prehistoric days. I have spared no expense on it, and yet it lacks something or other, some final touch that I cannot name."

Eve took a swift look around. Then she pulled the magazine table out a little from the wall, gave the Morris chair a twist, laid a book on the window sill and kicked the tiger skin rug back a foot from the door.

"Wonderful!" cried Adam and gazed open mouthed at the magical transformation.

The cave was more than a cave now. It was a home.

There's no place like home.—Newark News.

Good and Bad Composition.

A writer in the London Daily Chronicle has revived the old dispute as to the finest line in English poetry. He quotes Prof. Churton Collins as giving the palm to a line in Swinburne's "Tristram and Iseult," the line that says: "And all their past came waiving in the wind." Certainly that is a great line, but the real difficulty, says the Chronicle scribe, is to find the worst line rather than the best. And then he tells us of a contest between Tennyson and Fitzgerald as to who could write the weakest imaginable Wordsworthian line. They succeeded in producing: "A Mr. Wilkinson, a clergyman." Fitzgerald and Tennyson each claimed this fine effort and the point is still undecided. Can any one else do better than this?

ONLY TAKING OUT WRINKLES

Woman Gives Her Gowns Steam Bath and Alarms the Entire Hotel Staff.

The couple had been traveling and the wife's gowns had got wrinkled. After dressing they went to the theater, having previously unpacked the trunks, hung all the wrinkled dresses up in the bathroom and then filled the bathtub with hot water.

Not long after their departure persons passing along the corridor noticed something that looked like smoke coming out through the open transom, and an alarm of fire was given. One of the managers and a lot of porters and bellboys, some armed with fire extinguishers, rushed up to the scene. Things looked serious.

The manager produced his pass key and the brave followers prepared to rush in and distinguish themselves. The steam was so thick in the room that not a thing could be seen. One look established that the vapor was not smoke. When the traveled couple got back to the hotel they found an irate manager and a lot of soaked frocks. The woman said she had often taken the wrinkles out of dresses by a steam bath and she didn't see why the hot water was kept so very hot anyhow, for goodness knew that nobody wanted to take a bath in boiling water.

Stayed to the End.

A fine example of coolness was given the other day by a telegraph operator at Rennes, France, while the postoffice was burning. The Central postoffice in Paris received from them the following message: "The postoffice is on fire on the floor below us, where the telephone cabins have been burned. We will leave when the flames reach our floor." Soon after all were obliged to escape to the basement.

Home Life of the Birds.

Unlike most birds, the grebes do not brood their eggs continually. It is only at night and on cloudy days that you will find them at home. As soon as the sun has risen and warmed the chilly morning air the old bird leaves her nest and, collecting decaying vegetation from the shore or bottom of the lake, she covers the eggs with a thick layer and leaves the sweltering mass of streaming muck to hatch them while she spends the day in idleness or play.

Generosity.

"It's easy to be generous when our own demand is gratified," exclaimed Henry Miller, the actor. "There was once a little girl who invaded the drawing room where her sister's fiancé was waiting.

"Here," said the child, "here is a candy for you." And she gave Hilary McMaisters a hard, white lozenge.

"Oh, what a nice white lozenge!" said the young man, putting it in his mouth and beginning to suck vigorously.

"Yes, isn't it?" lisped the little girl. "It was striped wiv pink once!"—Young's Magazine.

Weather Wise.

In a certain town the local forecaster of the weather was so often wrong that his predictions became a standing joke, to his no small annoyance, for he was very sensitive. At length, in despair of living down his reputation, he asked headquarters to transfer him to another station.

A brief correspondence ensued.

"Why," asked headquarters, "do you wish to be transferred?"

"Because," the forecaster promptly replied, "the climate doesn't agree with me."—Bellman.

What He Was Doing.

"What are you using that shovel for?"

"To dig with, you ninny."

"What are you digging for?"

"Oh, for about twenty minutes."—Pittsburgh Press.

Genghis Khan, the Scourge of the East

ASLANT-EYED, high-cheek-boned Tartar boy—born on the banks of the Mongolian River Onon in 1162—formed a modest plan of conquering the world. He had a small enough start for such a venture. For his father was only a petty Tartar chief, ruling a mere handful of families. But the boy had boundless ambition, was a natural ruler of men, was held back by no qualms of conscience—for he seems to have been quite conscienceless—and had a natural cruelty of nature that overrode all obstacles. These customs and the leadership of his own little tribe were the sole backing he had for his mighty enterprise.

The lad was known as Temudjin ("the Wise"). He was thirteen when his father died. He found himself at the head of a rebellious clan that wanted to depose him for an older, wiser chief. Temudjin thrashed his foes, then thrashed and annexed neighboring tribes. He soon was ruler of a strong federation. A still stronger collection of tribes opposed him. He made friends with the Great Khan of the Keraites Tartars, by whose aid he beat his own enemies. He then married the Great Khan's daughter.

Trouble soon sprang up between Temudjin and his father-in-law. The young man defeated and slew the Great Khan, who had been his benefactor, and then made himself master of the whole region. His next step was to hunt up a Shaman (prophet of wisdom), who, by working on the Tartars' superstitions, made them regard Temudjin as a sort of god. The Shaman also prophesied that Temudjin would conquer the entire world.

The Tartar chief now abandoned his early name of Temudjin and took the title "Genghis Khan" (meaning "Greatest Chief"). He made a code of wise laws for his followers and changed their race name to "Mongol" ("Brave"). Then he set out on his task of world conquest.

First annexing all Tartary, he marched on China, crossed the Chinese Wall and advanced into the heart of the country. It was during this expedition that he first let loose to the full his love of barbarous cruelty and won the dread nickname "The Scourge of the East." He plundered and utterly destroyed ninety-six cities, besides a countless number of towns and villages. The inhabitants were put to death—men and women alike—with unspeakable tortures.

On a second campaign in China Genghis Khan in 1215 captured Peking and burned it to the ground after stealing everything that could be carried away. Thence he invaded Persia. The city of Bokhara was known as "the center of science." It held wondrous inventions and the Orient's rarest treasures of art and literature. Genghis Khan cared no more for such things or for the world's real progress than a mad dog cares for the rose hedge he breaks through. Bokhara, with its wondrous objects of art and learning, was destroyed. The entire country was devastated, and with the fall of its cities their priceless treasures of Oriental science went up in smoke. Millions of people were slain or carried into slavery.

Iran, Astrakhan and Southern Russia next fell prey to the merciless Khan. Practically all of China was enslaved. So were Korea and the countries northwest of India.

The Turks were driven out of their Asian fastnesses and chased across into Europe. (It was then that the Turks first settled in Eastern Europe, where later they were to wreak havoc on Christian nations.)

Wider and wider spread the conquests of Genghis Khan. At the capture of Herat alone he is said to have massacred 1,600,000 people. No mortal power could check his advance. The prophecy seemed about to come true. The more so when he won the mighty kingdom of Tangut by annihilating an army 30,000 strong in a fierce battle waged on the ice of a frozen lake.

Genghis Khan was now master of all the territory from the China Sea to the River Dnieper. He set forth on a fresh tour of slaughter in the summer of 1227. But astronomers told him that the stars at that time spelt disaster for him. So the superstitious Khan turned back in haste, to wait until the planets should promise him better luck. On the way homeward he fell ill and died.

Even in death his cruelties did not cease. The armed escort of his funeral procession slaughtered every one whom they met along the route to the place of burial, and nearly a thousand beautiful girls were slain, as a sacrifice, on the tomb.

Thus perished Genghis Khan—genius, born ruler and—wholesale blackguard.

Exercise.
Exercise in its general significance is a glorious thing. It is not, however, anything much in its purely physical sense. Thus, a person with large muscles and not very big wits is of almost no value to society, whereas a person who has exercised both is often indispensable. Exercises for the wits are very difficult. There is nothing to do 100 times, or 50 times.
It is not something to which one can give 20 minutes the first thing in the morning and then go the rest of the day. Socrates, who was the Sandow of mental exercise, kept his pupils at it pretty much of the time. There is one phase of it which is especially hard. This is the exercise of one's rights. Unexercised rights are much worse than unexercised muscles.
Thus, after voting, we are ordinarily mentally stiff and sore for several days. This is because, unaccustomed to exercising our rights, we strain them.

The secret of it all is to exercise your muscles a little, your wits a little and your rights a little. As the Greeks said, "Nothing too much."

Electric Street Sweepers.
The municipality of Berlin has found electrically driven machines for cleansing the streets much cheaper than the old horse carts. There are now twenty-four storage-battery machines in use. The electric machines do so much work that each machine is supposed to save about $1.33 a day by comparison with a horse-driven water cart.—The Electrical Review and Western Electrician.

AGE IN COTTON FACTORIES

Death of Oldest Weaver in Lowell Reveals Bright Side of Operatives' Lives.

A news dispatch tells of the death in Lowell of the oldest weaver in that city, a woman who was seventy-one years of age and was in comfortable circumstances, but who still preferred to work, in spite of her age. We call this to the attention of the friends of the "poor mill girl." In spite of what they tell about employment in a cotton factory, it seems that it is quite possible for a woman to follow the trade of a weaver until she has passed three score years and ten; it is possible for her to lay by money enough to place her in comfortable circumstances, and it is possible that the associations in busy, bustling weave shops, with their noise and lint and all the other unpleasant features may be more endurable to a woman who has cultivated the habit of industry over a long period of years than the loneliness she would feel in a comfortable home with only such tasks as take up her time and her attention as those necessary to light housekeeping.
The picture of industry, thrift and undoubted faithfulness that is shown in this brief news item from Lowell can be duplicated in nearly every one of the textile centers of New England, but it is the picture that is not so frequently held up to the view of the interested as the reverse of it. Nobody who has the welfare of the operatives —and that means of the industry itself —at heart would desire that the disagreeable features be covered so that the world would think there was nothing in them that should be improved, but it is gratifying and in the interest of truth besides to let a modicum of brightness reflect upon the canvas on occasions.—Fall River Herald.

Many-Sided Scientist.

Dr. Leland O. Howard, who coined the term, "typhoid fly," and aroused universal interest in the crusade against these dangerous pests, holds the distinction of being the only American on the international agricultural committee. He is an expert on insects in the department of agriculture, and it is largely due to his scientific investigations that the world became acquainted with the devastating boll weevil and the gipsy moth. In leading scientific societies of the world he is an honored member, but he can do other things besides investigate bugs. He likes golf, plays a rattling game of bil-lards, is learned in music, and fairly devours books. In politics he would be termed a "good mixer," having the rare ability to fraternize with all classes.

Watch It Grow

Watch it through the columns of The Daytona Gazette-News. It is published every Saturday the year round. More than a million dollars in improvements in Daytona and vicinity have been made during the past year and many large undertakings are laid out for the coming season, and you will want, of course, to keep abreast with the progress of the community.

It gives you more local news than all local papers of Volusia combined. Many of the little personals about persons with whom you are acquainted will interest you

The Tourists Sunday school class of the Methodist church gave a reception New Year afternoon from three to five o'clock, at the church. Mesdames Collier and Shelly, the entertainment committee, and the officers of the class, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Bowen, were on the reception committee and were well assisted by a corps of willing helpers. Mrs. Gage presided at the punch bowl. The reception was well attended and afforded the company a very pleasant afternoon. A musical program was given and delicious punch and cake served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ayres gave a number of their friends a delightful water trip and auto party Tuesday. Mrs. Ayres took the ladies of the party in their auto to a point below Port Orange, where they were met by Mr. Ayres and the gentlemen, who had made the trip in the boat, Bin Ayre. A delicious picnic dinner was served. After luncheon the ladies visited together while the gentlemen cast their fishing lines and succeeded in hooking a fine catch of trout.

The card parties at the White House are very popular with the guests and their friends. Saturday evening six tables were set for 500, and the games were much enjoyed. Mr. Ellis of Paducah, Ky., won first prize, and Mr. Hogg of Chicago, consolation. At the close of the games Brownies appeared and entertained the company with fantastic, fairy dancing. The White House served a large number at New Year dinner, which was a decided success, as are all holiday occasions under Mr. and Mrs. Ayres' capable directing.

The library tea, given at the home of Mrs. Cora Powell Monday afternoon, was well attended. Mrs. Whiting, a missionary, who has spent much of her life in China, gave an interesting talk of the country and her experiences, and Misses Olga and Helen Bowen gave recitations.

The musicale given by the San Souci club Thursday afternoon of last week at the pleasant home of Mrs. J. P. Esch, was exceptionally well enjoyed. Mrs. Watkins read an interesting paper on music, and the Willson orchestra gave a beautiful concert. The program was in charge of Mrs. Willson.

Roland Keating and wife spent a couple of days on the beach, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Keating, returning home Monday. They made the trip in their motor car.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dimmick, of Boswell, Ind., have taken apartments at Ocean Spray for the remainder of the season. Mr. Dimmick is mayor of his home town.

R. S. Hook, of Redding, Mass., a regular winter visitor, arrived this week and has rooms as usual at the Harroun house.

Little Miss Florence Smith of Palatka, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Harroun this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bastor of Chagrin Falls, Mass., are recent arrivals on the beach.

Jas. H. Barr of Brockton, Ind., has secured apartments at the Harroun apartment house.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Lichtenwaler of Wisconsin, arrived this week and have taken rooms for the season in one of the Hibbard flats.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Olds arrived Tuesday evening from Lansing, Mich., and are occupying their home on Hollywood avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Olds encountered two freight wrecks and came in six hours late.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Field and little son arrived from Jackson, Mich., the latter part of last week to occupy their beautiful home on the river front for the remainder of the season.

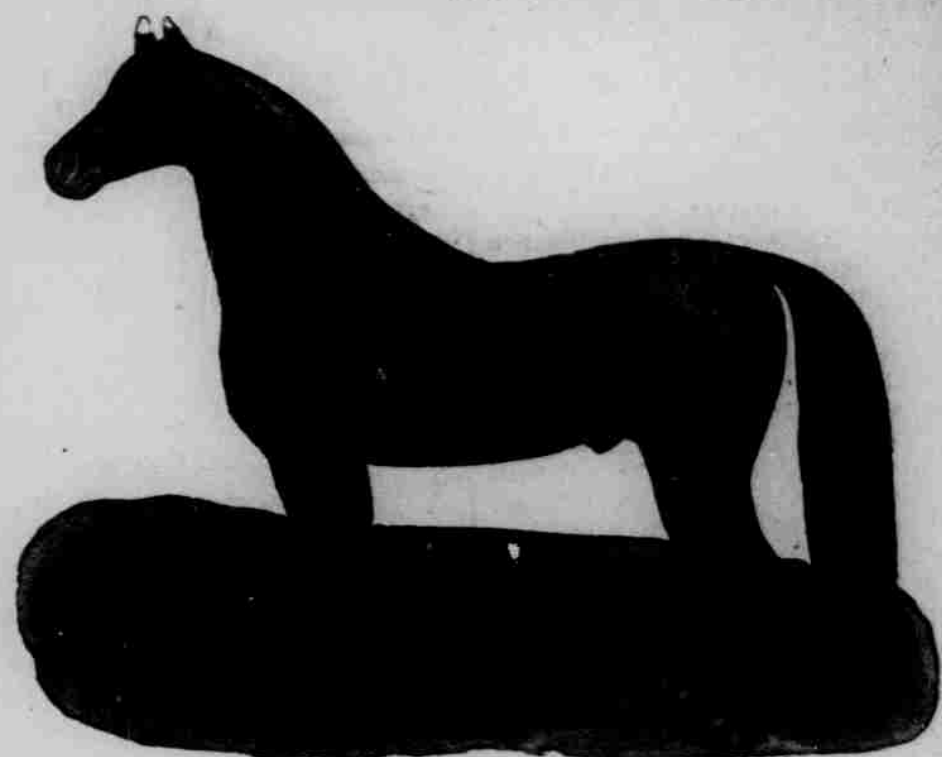

C. L. Wrigley and wife of New York, have taken a suite of rooms in the John Thompson home.

Numerous improvements have been made in the Pinchurst hotel this season. An addition to two new bed rooms on the first floor, new bath rooms, new kitchen and the dining room enlarged and given a southern opening, have greatly enhanced the comforts and attractiveness of this popular, home like hotel and the returning guests are greatly pleased over the change.

Mesdames Ramsey and Taylor, friends of Dr. and Mrs. Bowen from Kansas City, left Monday to continue their trip south to Ft. Lauderdale and Miami.

Miss Browning of Springfield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Farrance of Penticoke, N. H., Misses Turner of Wellesville, Kansas, Miss Longdon of Bayview, Mich., are located for Recent arrivals at the White House: Hugh Lichtenwaler, Monroe, Wis., Miss Julia Crumler, Miss Annabelle Wool, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gordon, Enterprise, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon spent Tuesday visiting friends on the peninsula, who were delighted to see them.

Miss Rich, who has been in the city several weeks, has taken rooms at the Willson house.

Water Elephant.

The water elephant is a newly discovered animal found in central Asia.

HOMEMADE SAUSAGES.

If you own a household vegetable or meat chopper you can make your own sausage meat just as you need it. There should be no monotony about this popular winter dish, for there are various ways of making the sausage meat.

Succulent Combinations.

Plain Sausage Meat.—Take one cupful of chopped pork, one-half cupful of chopped beef, one-half cupful of dried bread crumbs, a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, one-half teaspoonful powdered sage. Mix the pork, beef, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and sage well together and then make into small flat cakes. Put into a hot pan and either place in hot oven or fry slowly over the fire.

English Sausage Meat.—Take half a pound of calf's liver, four ounces of bacon, six ounces of fine bread crumbs, one egg, a little dried and powdered sage, pepper, salt and nutmeg. Stir the liver until tender, mince the bacon finely, add bread crumbs and finely chopped liver and seasoning. Bind with the egg, well beaten, form into sausages, roll in flour and fry in boiling fat. Serve very hot, garnished with parsley and cut lemon.

Made in Quantity.

Country Sausage.—Take six pounds of lean and three pounds of fat fresh pork. Mix these together and run through the meat chopper. Stir into this meat six tablespoonfuls each of salt and black pepper, twelve teaspoonfuls of powdered sage, two teaspoonfuls each of powdered cloves and mace and one grated nutmeg. Pack in a stone crock, pour melted lard over the top of the meat to keep out air. When to be used put it into small cakes and brown the outside. Fry in butter till brown on both sides.

An Elaborate Mixture.

Mixed Sausages.—Take a half pound each of lean fresh pork, veal and beef suet, four ounces of bread crumbs, the grated peel of a quarter of a lemon, three powdered sage leaves, a sprig each of summer savory, thyme and marjoram and half a grated nutmeg. The pork, veal and suet should be chopped separately and as fine as possible. Then they should be mixed together. Add the bread crumbs, lemon peel, nutmeg, a half a teaspoonful of pepper, a teaspoonful of salt and the sage, thyme and marjoram. All the ingredients should be chopped fine and then mixed well together. They should be shaped into neat cakes, sprinkled with flour and fried in butter.

Ana Thompson.

PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE, Jan. 2 — Mrs. Charles Milburn gave an old fashioned Christmas dinner on that day, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lyon and Miss May Milburn. Elmo Dupont came home from Hastings to spend the holidays with his parents.

J. L. and A. H. Tedder are drilling an artesian well for Mr. Wilmarth at his winter home on Riverside.

Mr. Appenzeller came near losing his house on Dunlawton avenue Thursday afternoon by fire. It was caused by a stove pipe that goes through the roof; fortunately it was seen in time and extinguished with buckets of water and not much damage done.

Last Thursday Mrs. H. K. DuBois was hostess of the church tea, assisted by Mrs. Weise, Mrs. Earnhart and Miss Jessie Hadlock.

Right Rev. Bishop Wm. Crane Gray will hold divine service in Grace church next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Grace church was very beautifully decorated this Christmas. We are expecting Bishop Gray to tell us something of his work among the Seminole Indians, as he will come from the Everglades to Port Orange.

Mrs. Chas. M. Milburn and two little daughters arrived from St. Augustine Monday to spend the week with Mr. Milburn's parents.

Vass hall had its opening dance Christmas night. It is lighted with acetylene gas. The decorations were of cedar and palms and were very pleasing. Merry Christmas was written across the end of the hall in cedar. The bright lights and handsome dresses and cheerful faces made it a scene long to be remembered.

WOMEN IN NEWSPAPER WORK

Edna Ferber, Who Has Tried It Herself, Tells About Their Life as Reporters.

The unusual life of the newspaperman has been diversely set forth by numerous writers, but the experiences of the newspaperwoman, the writer of "sob stories" and "human interest views," has seldom been told so well as by Miss Edna Ferber, herself a reporter of wide experience, who has made it the background for her new novel, "Dawn O'Hara." Miss Ferber makes Dawn, her journalistic heroine, say regarding her own craft:

"If a woman reporter were to burst into tears every time she saw something to weep over she'd be going about with a red nose and puffy eyelids half the time. Scarcely a day passes that does not bring her face to face with human suffering in some form. Not only must she see these things, but she must write of them so that those who read can also see them. And just because she does not wall and tear her hair and faint she popularly is supposed to be a dainty, cigarette-smoking creature who rambles up and down the land, seeking whom she may read with her pen and gazing dry-eyed upon scenes of horrid bloodshed."

INTERESTING RIDES AND DRIVES
POINTS WORTH VISITING

OCEAN BEACH—excellent motoring north for 10 miles and south 16 miles to Mosquito Inlet and the Government lighthouse at Ponce Park. The beach is the most magnificent in the world.

BEED, KNOX & BEED ORANGE GROVE—18 miles, via Ormond, is one of the largest groves in Volusia county and is well worth seeing; can be reached by motor over fairly good road; can also be reached by boat.

NUMBER NINE ORANGE GROVE—a large grove, passed on the way to the Beed, Knox & Beed grove, is 12 miles from Daytona.

NEW SMYRNA—16 miles from Daytona, over an excellent hard surface road; this drive is said to be the prettiest in the state. At New Smyrna are the ruins of an ancient fort and other historical spots, left by the colony of Andrew Turnbull.

OLD SPANISH MISSION—2 miles west of New Smyrna, reached by motor over good road. This mission is without authentic history but by many it is contended that this is the church built by Columbus on his second voyage to America. The altar is still extant, but at a later date the building was used as a sugar mill.

SPANISH SUGAR MILL—2 miles west of Port Orange and about 3 miles from Daytona; the machinery is still in a good state of preservation, although the mill is presumed to have been built and operated by the early Spanish settlers.

GOVERNMENT LIGHTHOUSE—at Ponce Park, 12 miles from Daytona is reached by boat or by motor on the ocean beach.

MAMMOTH TREE—4 miles from Daytona; an abnormally large tree; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

DELAND—25 miles from Daytona; the county seat of Volusia county and seat of John B. Stetson university; a very picturesque city; reached by motor over hard surfaced road.

TOMOKA RIVER—The scenic stream of Florida; reached by excursion boats which leave Daytona daily and run to the navigable head of the stream, 26 miles from the city. Generally a number of alligators may be seen in their native haunts. This is a trip no tourist should miss.

DELEON SPRINGS, 28 miles from Daytona; mammoth spring that throws out thousands of gallons of water a minute; a delightful bathing pool, and picturesque scenery. Spring is situated in an old plantation. Reached by motor over good road; a nice trip for a picnic party.

OAK HILL—hamlet, 10 miles south of New Smyrna; several orange groves in the locality; reached by motor over hard-surfaced road.

ORMOND—six miles from Daytona; here is located the Ormond hotel and a pretty town; nearby are the ruins of Spanish sugar mills.

TURTLE MOUND—26 miles south of Daytona; reached by boat; a mammoth mound of oyster shells supposed to have been left by a prehistoric race of people. Pottery and other antiquities have been discovered in excavating the shell.

PORT ORANGE—an attractive town 6 miles south of Daytona, can be reached by motor over hard-surfaced road; on the trip one way may be made by the road and crossing the Halifax river on the Port Orange bridge, the return can be made on the ocean beach.

CLARENDON GOLF LINKS—2 miles from Daytona and immediately north of the Hotel Clarendon at Seabreeze; the links are now in good condition. The Hotel Clarendon bears the distinction of being the only fireproof winter tourist hotel in the world.

GENERALLY, you may motor in any direction from Daytona and find places and objects of interest which your driver can explain to you; there are many by-roads through the sylvan vegetation that a visitor will greatly enjoy.

A Story of the Balkan War

By F. A. MITCHEL

When the war between the Balkan states and the Turks broke out it placed Arthur Andrews, an American living in Serbia, in a condition calculated to drive him mad. A few years before, having come of age and inheriting a fortune, he went abroad to travel for pleasure. The Balkan peninsula attracted him owing to its rugged scenery, the gay costumes of its people and its general oriental appearance.The inhabitants of Turkey in Europe are a mixture of the white and Turkish races, Christians and Muham-medans. Andrews was at an impossible, reckless age, an age to fall violently in love and, being in love, not to consider the consequences of an ill assorted marriage. A young Turkish girl to whom he was introduced carried him clean off his feet, and he became so violently in love with her that, throwing caution to the winds, he began to marry her.The lady, Zaidé, the daughter of a pasha, born in the highest Turkish circles, did not consider Andrews her social equal, but her heart was enlisted as well as his own, and she consented that he should ask her father for her hand. The pasha, being an admirer of western civilization, looked favorably on his suit and at last consented, provided he would embrace the faith of Islam. The young man declared that he would embrace any faith on the face of the globe if he might be permitted to embrace the pasha's daughter. The marriage was celebrated, and the groom, realizing that his and his wife's religion would be out of place in America, remained in Turkey.Andrews' Mohammedism, being skin deep, wore off with the first freshness of love. Indeed, the more he saw of the Turks the deeper he sympathized with those who would be glad to see the crescent driven back into Asia, from which it had emerged many centuries before to make its European conquests. Born a Christian, it galled him that the Turks should occupy Christian ground, that their capital should have been founded by the first Christian Roman emperor or that the church of St. Sophia should be a mosque.When the Montenegrins, in order to forestall an order from the powers, broke sword in hand, into Turkish territory and Serbia was preparing to do her part in the war, a crisis came in the affairs of Andrews and his wife.Her father was not only devoted to the cause of Islam, but was an officer high in the service of the sultan. The young wife declared that she would stand by her father, her countrymen and her religion. Andrews asserted that he would join the Serbian forces and aid in banishing the crescent to Asia, where it belonged. They parted, though their hearts were welded, agreeing that after the struggle they would fly again to each other.During those first few weeks when the allied forces were winning victory after victory and driving their enemy before them there were some temporary setbacks to the allies. In one of these Andrews, who commanded a squadron of cavalry in the Serbian army, was wounded and captured. He and those taken with him were hurried to the rear to a reserve corps, which it happened was under the command of Rustom Pasha, his father-in-law.Zaidé, who was a woman of strong character, had while living with her husband become much interested in many European institutions, among others the Red Cross. She had no sooner joined her father than she proceeded to organize a similar corps as an auxiliary to her father's command.
One day upon passing hurriedly down between two rows of cots in a hospital her eye fell upon a face which notwithstanding its pallor she recognized at once as her husband. She was about to fly to his embrace when the horror of the situation rushed upon her. Andrews had professed to be a disciple of Mohammed and had drawn his sword against the prophet.
So long as he was unrecognized as a Mohammedan he would be treated as a prisoner of war, but if he were known to be or have been of the faith nothing could save him.The glances of the two met, and this same thought occurred to both. There was a momentary lighting of each pair of eyes. Then the wife withdrew hers, and she passed on down the aisle and left the room.The hospital, though in the Turkish rear, was not considered permanent.
For the allies were pressing forward, fighting like tigers. But for one day and night the sick were undisturbed.
During the evening Mrs. Andrews, though worn out with the distressing work of the day, went in among the sick, ostensibly to cheer them, but really to steal a brief interview with her husband. Taking the precaution to stop and speak with a number of sufferers before reaching the bed he occupied, she at last came to his and said in the Turkish tongue and a voice loud enough to be heard:

"Are you badly wounded, sir?"

"Only slightly," was the reassuring reply.

"Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Yes. During the night I am feverish and troubled with a burning thirst.
If you can send about midnight some water I shall be grateful.""I will send it tonight." She passed on, but both understood that an excuse had been given her to communicate with him at an hour when few were about and possibly to have an interview with him unnoticed.At midnight she brought the water herself. Only one nurse was on duty, and she sat at a far end of the room half asleep. Unobserved, the wife knelt to give her husband a cup of water, and their lips met."You will be discovered surely," she whispered. "Indeed, you have been suspected already. One of the nurses has asked me if you were not a Mohammedan, saying that she has seen you at your devotions in a mosque. I told her that I would look into the matter at once. You must leave here at any cost.""Not if my escape shall compromise you.""I have thought of a plan. As soon as it is day begin to groan as if in great pain and keep it up until I appear. I shall then direct your removal to a place where you will not disturb your fellow prisoners. Once there, we may carry out my intentions as to your escape."Without waiting for a reply she hurried away, leaving her husband fearful of the consequences that would ac-cure to her in case she were caught assisting in the escape of a renegade Mohammedan.However, he could see no risk in carrying out so much of her plan as she had given him, and with the first sign of dawn he began a groaning so loud that the nurse in charge reported the fact that he was having a bad effect on the other patients. Zaidé at once ordered him taken to a room by himself and remained to look after his necessities after those who had removed him had left and told him the balance of her plan for him. It was that he should put on her clothes and since Turkish ladies do not expose the face there would be little difficulty in his walking out past the guards without being detected."And you?" exclaimed the husband.
"How will you protect yourself against the terrible fate that will come to you when it is discovered that you are here and I have walked out in your clothes? Though your father commands, he will not be able to save you from the fury of your people.""I have a chance of deceiving them; you have none."At that moment there came the distant boom of a gun. It was followed by another and another till the whole became like low muttering thunder."The allies are pressing forward," exclaimed Andrews. "Quite likely before long they will have driven their enemy from this position.""In that case," was the reply, "there will be great confusion among us, and it will not be so difficult to carry out my plan."During the morning the booming grew more distinct, and added volleys of musketry at last turned the whole into one incessant roar. Zaidé was occupied every moment in providing for the wounded that were constantly being brought in and could not steal a moment to visit her husband. Then came an order to abandon the hospital, while the thunder of war without turned comparative order into panic.What became of the prisoners, excepting Andrews, forms no part of this story, but in the midst of the turmoil Zaidé hurried into her husband's room with a nurse's apparel—there were no uniforms—with spots of blood on it.
She had removed it from its wearer, who had been killed by a bursting shell.
Giving it to her husband, he put it on, and the two sallied forth.The Turkish line in front was breaking before the impetuous charge of the allies, and panic-stricken men were running east, while random shots were whistling by Andrews and his wife.
He begged Zaidé to make toward the enemy's lines, but she refused."Go," she said, "to your people. You are saved, and I will not be suspected of having aided you. I must stand by my father and my faith, else I can no longer live in the home of my ancestors."They were standing, each to let go each other's hands, Andrews pulling one way, Zaidé the other, when she was struck by a spent ball and stumbled, falling into her husband's arms.
He, thinking that she was dead, with a cry of anguish, laid her on the ground. She had scarcely recovered consciousness when with a shout a regiment of Servians came bounding past them and they were inclosed within the allied lines.The transposition from being under the cross instead of the crescent put an entirely new phase in the situation for this loving couple. Both were safe for the present, and should Zaidé return to her own people there was no reason to suppose that her having favored a renegade to the cause of Islam would be known. She very soon recovered from the blow she had received and asked to be permitted to return to her work. Andrews made a confidant of his commander and asked him to delay the permission.While waiting the husband made a strong effort to persuade his wife to adopt the Christian injunction to "love her people and cleave unto her husband. He offered to withdraw from the cause of the allies if she would do the same with that of the Turks. They would go to his own home in America, where Zaidé would become one of his own people. After all, the part of a wife, common in most countries, is to enter upon her husband's condition prevailed, and Zaidé finally agreed to his terms. The allies were besieging Constantinople, and there was little of Islam in Europe left to detain her.
Together the two set sail for the land of all religions.

IRENE ESCH ENTERTAINS FOR FLORENCE CLARKE.

Thursday evening Miss Irene Esch entertained with a progressive dinner at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Esch, Peninsula drive, Daytona Beach. The pleasant entertainment was given in honor of Miss Florence Clarke, who is spending the holidays with her father and mother at Daytona Beach.

The guests were seated at four prettily laid tables, the gentlemen progressing with each course. The place cards were unique and caused much merriment. The names were hidden and the reverse side bore a picture and quotation so aptly discriptive of the personality of each guest that there was little confusion in finding the proper places.

After the delicious dinner the evening was spent in many games and contests. The prizes were won by Miss Clarke and Leon Despland.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Miss Esch were the Misses Florence Clarke, Esther Wolfe, Inez Maley, Ashley Maley, Dorothy Martyn, Kate Dittman, Ethel Sholtz, and Messrs. Leon Despland, Tom Wilder,

BIG RED LETTER EVENT.

Only a few days more remain before the advent of the famous Sun Bros.' show's visit to Daytona, January 7. The show in all its entirety and with a plethora of new acts and decided novel features, will assemble its forces on the depot grounds early in the morning.

Over one hundred men, women and children performers take part in the show. The special, or big display, acts are given by illustrious European and American headliners. The wild beast section is a noteworthy feature and is educational and unusually attractive, with many odd subjects, never before exhibited in America.

The officials and amusement goers generally welcome the Sun Brothers' show with open arms, because of its great cleanliness and freedom from gamblers, grafters and immoral issues. Two performances will be offered, afternoon and night.

*On and after January 6, no goods will be sold at our store or meat market except for cash. J. W. Ball

BIRTH REGISTER IN SALT

Novel "Certificate" in a Bottle Shown to Old-Age Pension Officer in England.

Since the old-age pensions act has been in operation in England, says a writer in the Strand Magazine, there has been a great search for birth certificates, in order to enable those entitled to its benefits to claim their pensions. As the registration of births, more than seventy years ago, was not carried out as now, there has been a difficulty in many cases in proving the age of the applicants, and in one instance at least a certificate of an exceedingly novel character was presented. At any rate, the local pension officer said he had never come across one like it, and he was quite prepared to take it as a proof of the age of the applicant. When a child was born in this particular family a clear glass bottle was procured and partly filled with salt; then the letters and figures forming the names of the child and date of birth were cut out of a newspaper and placed inside the bottle, being put in their correct position with a piece of wire, and then more salt was carefully added to keep them in place. Sprays of flowers and other ornamental designs, cut from cretonne, were also tastefully arranged around the inside of the bottle, and then the whole was tightly packed with salt, and corked and sealed. It was then placed in a prominent position on the dresser or in a corner cupboard, where it has been for more than seventy years. The white salt shows up the letters and ornaments in relief, and the whole effect is novel and pleasing.

RUNAWAY HORSE IS CAPTURED AT THE POSTOFFICE CORNER

DRIVER THROWN FROM RIG NEAR DESPLAND FARM AND HORSE DASHES MADLY DOWN MAGNOLIA AVENUE.

A flurry of excitement was caused Thursday afternoon at about 4:30 o'clock in the vicinity of the postoffice by the appearance of a big horse, attached to a buggy, racing madly eastward on Magnolia avenue toward Beach street, the reins dragging on the ground.

The frightened animal apparently made for the entrance to the lane between the Cleveland hotel and the rear of the Peck-Hendricks building, but missed it and continued eastward to Beach street along the sidewalk at the south side of the Peck-Hendricks building.

The horse would probably have turned north on Beach street had it not been turned back by C. O.
Van Meter, who happened to be in the vicinity. The turning of the horse in this manner checked its speed and enabled Marshal Melton to secure the lines and put a stop to the runaway.

A few moments later the owner of the horse and vehicle, E. Osborne, of Windham, N. Y., who has a winter home on South Palmetto avenue, made his appearance in an automobile and took charge of his horse and buggy which were none the worse for the mad dash along Magnolia from the vicinity of the Des-pland farm, where Mr. Osborne was thrown from the vehicle by a wheel striking a stump when he was making a turn among some palmetto scrub along the roadside.

Mr. Osborne escaped injury from the fall and fortunately the horse was stopped before it turned into crowded Beach street where injury to persons and damage to property would surely have resulted.

Canada's Federal System.

That Canada is a nation in the making and in the very beginning of that making, you may see everywhere. Indeed, there is not one place of Canadian life and activity that does not tell the story of nation-building. But nowhere does this so force itself upon you as when you study the forming of the Canadian government, and especially its development of a national, constitutional, and judicial system.— American Review of Reviews.

London's Fog Expensive.

It is said the London taxpayer is put to an extra expense of $60,000 annually by reason of the prevalence of fog. One gas company alone furnishes gas to the value of $15,000 over and above the normal figure on a single day of fog. The suspension of traffic is another serious item.

Dr. C. P. Brokaw, wife and son, of Electra, Texas, who have been visiting the doctor's brother, A. K.
Brokaw, and family at their home on Fairview avenue, left Thursday for DeLand, where they will visit C.
M. Brokaw and then go to Apopka to see W. H. Brokaw before returning to their home in Texas.

*Don't forget Hatte can satisfy the inner man.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin arrived New Year's eve and are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Melton at their home on Baker street. They will also spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs.
Walter B. Burgess at DeLand before returning to Baltimore. Mrs.
Martin is a cousin of Mrs. Melton and Mrs. Burgess and the couple are on their wedding trip, having been married in Baltimore on the eve of their departure for Florida.

Mr. Vann, who was called to this city Thursday to attend the funeral of his son, Capt. Leon Vann, departed again the same day for his home on the peninsula opposite Shiloh. He was accompanied by his son, John Vann, and the latter's wife. The party made the trip to Oak Hill by boat and from that place to Daytona by automobile, returning in the same manner.

*Don't fail to see our special today, "Tracked By Wireless," at the Arcade Moving Picture theatre.

Mrs. F. J. Woodworth and daughter, Miss Sadie Woodworth of Rochester, N. Y., who have been spending a few days with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Spring, of Ivy Lane, leave this afternoon for Palm Beach where they will spend the season. Mrs. Woodworth and daughter stopped over at this place Wednesday to see Mr. and Mrs.
Spring and the city which seems to have such an attraction for them.

*Films developed, ten cents. printing reasonable. ROGERS. 1f

Messrs. J. B. Price and Frank Fox, contractors and builders, of Elmira, N. Y., who were here for a month earlier in the season and afterwards went to Palm Beach and Miami, stopped over again in this city from Thursday until this morning on their way to Jacksonville, where they expect to remain until spring. Messrs. Price and Fox are well known to a number of the Elmira people sojourning in Daytona and vicinity, and the first named gentleman has been visiting Florida in the winter seasons for several years, but had never before come to Daytona.
